My Interpretation of Civilization

It is sometimes argued that civilization means truth, kindness and beauty. I completely agree with this view because I tend to believe that it is Chinese traditional culture which is excellent impress us a lot.

When I was a little girl, I realized my parents pay attention to their language expression, no matter how naughty I am, they always take patient rather than speak aloud to me. Due to the fact that I grow up in a healthy environment, I can't bare the rude words, so I think it can also be a good habit to me. And two years ago, it is so pity that I failed in the college entrance examination, they didn't pressure me, on the contrary, they were pretty supportive of my choice of major. In this case, I am so passion in my study that get a good grade. That is, I always deeply moved by the power of warm words, there is not denying that a comfortable living environment could shape a healthy person both physically and mentally.

Undeniably, in social situations, keeping a good order can bring a variety of benefits to people's daily life. From my personal point of view, security levels are closely related to happiness, in the interests of Chinese people, but play an important role in regulating individual behavior, thereby raising the awareness of civilization. In other words, only everyone do something promoting social development can we achieve the blueprint for the country's future.

On a historical level, civilization is the positive outcome of human activities and a living system condensed by history, and we stand in the midst of a great historical, that is, we need diversity, equality and inclusion. In the past international Women's Day, I felt a great respect for women, and more and more overseas students could become a bridge of civilization exchange, which improved communication among the world, but the most impress me is that the new generation is becoming more and more inclusive, regardless of age and gender, especially in our spiritual world.

Despite the fact that with the development of technology, people's living standard is constantly improving, I don't agree that these are real civilizations, it seems like the result of human predation from nurture, combining with my major -environment science, what I can do is to improve the way non-renewable resources are used, in order to protect our environment in a scientific way, forming a civilized society.

As a consequence, both the government and citizens should make joint efforts, can our society become better and more civilized, I always believe that even personal effort can make a huge difference.
